About Omni-Quant:

Omni-Quant is a leading provider of construction tender services in Australia. The company alerts subcontractors to tender opportunities and provides them with relevant project plan documents, thus enabling them to bid on projects in a timely and cost-effective manner. Omni-Quant also offers builders an 'on demand' reproduction and distribution service for their tender documents. Omni-Quant was founded in 1980 and joined the BCI Group in June 2007.

About BCI Australia:

BCI Australia researches upcoming construction projects, from inception through planning and permitting to construction. It provides its value-added information services to a wide variety of material suppliers and related services catering to the building, construction and mining sector, offering them access to tens of thousands of contract opportunities often hidden away from the public domain. BCI Australia is part of the BCI Group, the leading construction media group in Australasia. Founded 1998, BCI offers project leads services, publications and events for the construction communities in nine distinct markets in Southeast Asia and Australia.
